Weep not for me Weep not for me my loved ones, dear ones that I adore, for I have taken earthly leave, to a far off distant shore. I've taken nothing with me, though onward I proceed, where all my wants of love are met, there's naught that I could need. My path on earth was rugged, my walk of life unsure; but you were there with cheerful hearts to help me to endure. Your strength and love surrounded me, to help me through my life, your steady hands held tightly, as I walked through bitter strife. Rejoice in my sweet passing, and let your hearts find ease, for I have found a wondrous land, of beauty and of peace. Remember that I love you, for that is ment to be; ah this sweet and lasting love that fills eternity. So now my days are ended, at a seeming hurried pace, and yes I've fought that goodly fight; I've ran that timely race. Dry those tears of sorrow, fill not your hearts with pain; for I have found my lasting peace, on a far off distant plain. I'll always be there with you, locked within your hearts; to give you peace and comfort; though in worlds apart. I now have my happines, and sweet serenity; so comfort one another; but do not weep for me.

He was a good and gracious father, a just, upright, kind and loving man. More than anything else he was liked and admired by everyone whose path he crossed. We are saddened naturally by this loss and the world is a poorer place for his passing for while with us the world was indeed a brighter place. I know that we all will miss being able to ask his advice and receive a loving, caring, kind and thoughtful response to whatever questions we had in our travels on life's highway. Thank you father. I love you.
